Place your hand palm down so that this line is level with the side and this line crosses the widest point just below the knuckles, as per the illustration. The example shown will be for a medium pair of Globeleather wheelchair push cuffs.

This is a general guide only.

This company operates an ethical policy using leather that is free from toxic additives. Because of this and the need for comfort and flexibility (we can use other leathers but the quality would be compromised) there may be some colour loss from our leather gloves. This can be reduced by hand washing the gloves using a mild detergent then rinsing them until the water is clear. It is important to let the gloves dry naturally (do not place them on a heated object or spin dry).
